DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shavit et al. in view of the cited "Production and Operations Management" manual.

Shavit et al. disclose, or inherently teach, all of the limitations of the claims including: supply chain communication between stores, distributors, suppliers, and manufacturers using a network interface including the Internet.

Shavit et al. lacks the specific teaching of particular method steps associated with the manager of the supply chain including: transmitting sales data from suppliers, sending purchase data from distributors, and communicating sales data from stores as well as from the manager's office.

The manual discloses a manager's responsibilities in managing a supply chain and specifically teaches on page 599 (2nd complete paragraph) that firms often include "actual point-of-sale data" in EDI (Electronic Data Interchange).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Shavit et al. to have sales data transmitted from suppliers to the supply chain manager, to have purchase data sent from distributors to the supply chain manager, and to have sales data communicated from stores as well as from the manager' office to the manager, in view of the cited "Production and Operations Management" manual, in order to "lower production costs through lower buffer inventories and more efficient scheduling" (Production and Operations Management, page 599, lines 18-19).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
